Dear Meeting & Incentive Planner

Antalya the city which will host 53rd ICCA Congress in 2014, a vibrant location makes any event unforgettable.

Antalya is one of the most attractive destination for Events & Incentives.

You can have breakfast at your hotel by the sea, lunch at 2365 meters high with delicious Mediterranean Cuisine with high standard Turkish Wines, and may have cocktail-prolong at the ancient historical and most well preserved Roman Theater Aspendos, which was build around 2nd century AD.

You can have private Yacht Cruise along the Mediterranean coast, join one of the concerts of International Piano Festival during the night. You can swim at the sea all the day have romantic dinner at the Old Town.

For the incentives as well, Antalya has variety of creative activities as you may imagine. If you are looking for adrenaline gush, you may have the chance for a Jeep Safari in the beautiful nature of the Taurus Mountains, or may join the white-water Rafting at the Köprülü Canyon, with the boat guide, and have barbecue lunch at the heart of the nature or may fly over the Mediterranean from 2365 meters high, Paragliding.

If you would like to establish or strengthen a team spirit, you may organize a paintball and fun climbing tournament in the forest or may organize treasure hunting at the narrow and sophisticated roads of Old Town of Antalya. You may also organize golf, football and tennis tournaments to excite the competition.

You may organize exclusive Wedding Ceremony at even on the Catamaran-Boat while Cruising most attractive bays of the Antalya, at the Museum of Antalya or the one of the most luxuries Hotels of Antalya.

You may also create shopping groups to Antalya, to have chance to see all kinds of alternatives of international brands with the latest trends, as well as the national brands and also the Turkey's biggest, Carpet, Leather, and Jewelry centers with the comparable reasonable rates.

Also you may give your guests the chance to try their hands at creating artistic works. This might be an Ottoman Calligraphy, once the exclusive preserve of the Sultan, transforming his proclamations into a timeless piece of work, or Ebru, the delicate paper marbling Art Painting and an almost meditative craftsmanship.

Turkey is also very famous for the art of carpet weaving and the analysis of their colorful designs unfold history and tradition of our country. The carpet making of Antalya s Döşemealtı carpets (Döşemealtı means below the pavement and is a referral to the remains of an antique road, paved with stone blocks during the Roman area) might make a fascinating subject for your participants.

At Antalya the participants of your event have the chance not only to discover the exotic flavors of this unique cuisine but to learn how to prepare is under the watchful eye of one of our hotel s master chefs.

We "allinantalya convention bureau" will do all your dreams come true.

Antalya proud to host
53rd ICCA Congress in 2014

Dear Meeting & Incentive Planner,

I would like to express my warm greetings, “Merhaba” from one of the most authentic corners of Anatolia, Antalya.

As President of Antalya Chamber of Commerce and Industry (ACCI), and Antalya Convention Bureau (ACB), I have written many introductions and letters of invitation, but certainly one of the most significant is for the Antalya Meeting Planners Guide. The reason for this lies deep in the history of our city.

In the ancient world Antalya and its environs were home to countless civilizations and cultures. Because of this, the region was named as Pamphylia, “the land of all people, the place where cultures meet”.

For thousands of years, throughout philosophy was of great importance for Antalya and its surroundings and the tradition continue even today with its activity in the tourism sector. Antalya, which hosts millions of tourists every year, both Turkish and international, has become one of the most prominent touristic regions in the Mediterranean.

Antalya certainly deserves the recognition of tourism industry with its hundreds kilometers of coastline, a constant year round favorable climate, with its historical heritage, remarkable cultural and arts festivals which have international fame.

In addition to all these characteristics we must add that, Antalya ICF Airport, chosen as the best European Airport in 2011 and 2012 among the airports, which are welcoming between 10 to 25 million passengers in a year around. This shows the growing number of direct regular, charter and acceptable number of connection flights, which makes Antalya today a destination easily reached from all over the world.

Antalya is not only a sun, sea and sand destination but has also earned an important place in the meetings and the incentive industry. Through the efforts of the Antalya Convention Bureau, which is a non-profit organization, over the last 17 years, Antalya has now begun to reap the benefits of its investments. In 2014 Antalya will host more than 250 national and international congresses, and in 2014 Antalya will host ICCA World Congress.

As the partnership between the Antalya Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Antalya Convention Bureau has developed and deepened, I am happy to note a new increase in convention and meeting planning. The aim of this meeting planner guide is to help you in finding information about the convention, and incentive facilities as well as the cultural and natural wealth of the area. We, and all our partners will do our utmost to make your event in Antalya a success for both you and your delegates.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our colleagues in Antalya Convention Bureau and have the honor to invite you to our beautiful city.

Do you know that Antalya,

Known as Pamphylia in antiquity, literally meaning "of mingled tribes and races." Antalya was first established by King Attalos II of Pergamum, who believed to have found paradise on earth. Today Antalya is one of the world's foremost tourism destinations.

"Antalya welcomes 11 million foreign and 4 million local tourists per year. As the fourth most visited city in the world, right behind Paris, London and Singapore, Antalya is a resounding success story..."

The shining star of Turkey, Antalya, has 275 five-star hotels, a bed capacity of 600 thousand and a seating capacity of 175 thousand in its convention and meeting venues.

Beside the classic sand, sea and sun tourism, convention and meetings, golf, football and health also have an important share in tourism.

"Antalya is the most important congress destination after Istanbul."

According to the statistics of 2012,

Antalya hosted a total of 179 congresses (69 international and 110 national congresses). More than 100 thousand visitors came to Antalya to participate in these congresses in 2012 and around 400 thousand people came for incentive meetings during the same period, 250 thousand coming from Russia alone. Antalya boasts 18 golf courses and around 90 football fields hosting more than 2000 teams per year during the mid-season and off-season.

Antalya's share in Turkey's agricultural output is 5%, but more than 15% of vegetables and 7% of fruits are grown in the province. Half of Turkey's greenhouse production takes place in Antalya.

The province of Antalya is the cut-flower centre of Turkey accounting for 43% of total production. In 2016 the Botanic EXPO with its theme of "A Green Life for Future Generations / Children & Flowers" will be held in Antalya. In the light industry sector Antalya has a significant place in luxury yacht production, alcoholic beverages, wood processing and food industry.

Antalya is one of Turkey's wealthiest regions in terms of cultural tourism. You can come across an ancient settlement almost every twenty kilometres. Among these are very important cultural heritage sites such as Phaselis, Perge, Aspendos, Side, Termessos, Demre (St. Nicholas Church) and Myra.

Antalya is one of the richest areas concerning endemic plants with more than 800 different varieties.

The 509-km long Lycian Way is the only long-distance trail passing through ancient cities and begins about 20 kilometres from Antalya. A large part of the route covered by St. Paul, one of the most important figures of Christianity, during his missionary journeys lies within the boundaries of Antalya.

Antalya

History

Antalya was the site of one of the oldest settlements in Anatolia. Twenty-five kilometres to the northwest of Antalya's centre is Karain Cave, once home to a community of eighty people, with evidence that its history goes back to the Paleolithic Age. The cave was discovered during research conducted on the surface between 1946 and 1958. Some objects in the cave were dated as being one million years old.

The region was under the control of the Hittite Empire between 1400 BC. -till the fall of the Hittites, many independent states were established in the region. Between the 11th and 8th centuries BC, first the Lydians and then Persians ruled the region. In the 4th century BC it was Alexander the Great's turn to conquer the region. In the period following his death, the province changed hands a number of times, because of conflict between his generals for control of the region.

The King of Pergamon, Attalos II (159-138 BC), seized the natural port of Pamphylia, the city of Antalya and took over control of what is now the site of the present day. The city was named Attaleia after him. In 67 BC the city was subsumed into the Roman territory, becoming prosperous under Roman rule.

The city became a centre where Christianity spread to the Anatolian soil. However, in the 7th century there were continuous attacks by Arabs on Anatolia and the Antalya region. In 652, the Byzantine navy lost a major naval battle against Arab forces fought in the waters off Antalya.

The Antalya region's next encounter with Islam was during the Seljuk period, with the capture of the city in 1085. The city changed hands between the rulers of small kingdoms until 1426 when it fell to the Ottomans. The last invasion of the city was by Italian forces between 1919 and 1921. On 5 July 1921 the invasion ended and Antalya became a city of the young Turkish Republic. For many years the economic activities of the city were based on the growing of fruit and vegetables in the mainly agriculture area, as well as fishing and maritime. Today it is the largest tourism centre of Turkey and the Eastern Mediterranean.

In the western part of Antalya one of history's first major confederations, the Lycian Union, was formed. This league, once the most powerful in the region, had its member states represented by a system of one, two or three votes, depending on the size and importance of the states. Starting from the west end of present day Antalya and stretching to Fethiye in the province of Muğla, it covered a very large area for those days. To the east stretched the state of Pamphylia.

The region with its steep mountains falling to the sea with just limited coastal plains had long drawn pirates. The pirates did not just confine their activities to capturing and looting merchant ships but also from time to time they took control of and ruled whole cities.

We mentioned that the region was where Christianity first spread to Anatolia. Many churches, chapels and other buildings dating from the early Christian era can be seen at various historical sites. The museums of the region have a wide collection of pre-Christian and Christian as well as Islamic artifacts. One of the world's best known figures, St. Nicholas, otherwise known as Father Christmas, was from the region of Antalya. Many myths, local legends and a rich history have survived from the area's past to the current day.

Antalya Museum

The Antalya Museum is one of Turkey's best and in 1988 it was awarded the "Museum of the Year Award" of the European Council. Having a stroll around the museum helps to locate and understand the historical sites in the region to be visited later. The main displays in the museum consist of finds from excavations at Side, Perge, Karatas-Semahöyük, Arykanda, Xanthos Lmyra, Patara and the Elmalı Bayındır Tumulus.

In the museum there is an exhibition entitled Children where ancient toys are on display, natural history, ehistoric pieces from the Phrygian era, statues of gods and goddesses, underwater finds, statues of emperors, cophagi, mosaics and icons, while in the ethnography section there are displays in thematic and onological categories. The Antalya Museum has collections containing artifacts from various civilisations in egiön. It is worth sparing time for it either before or after you visit the sites.

ANTALYA AIRPORT, YOUR GATEWAY TO HEAVEN ON EARTH

Centre of Antalya

Antalya is Turkey's foremost tourism centre and indeed one of the most important tourism centres of the world. Tourism is one of the main focuses of the economy of the city and the province of Antalya. The prosperity brought by tourism, as evidenced by the high-rise buildings and modern business centres in the city, means that all along the coastline there is competition to develop tourism.

At the same time Antalya is the main gate of the region. Whether you arrive by air or road you have to go through Antalya before visiting the region. The international airport came into operation in record-breaking speed and meets all the requirements of arriving tourists.

There is a strong flow of foreign tourists on scheduled and charter flights. You can also fly to Antalya from Istanbul, Ankara, Erzurum, Adana, Diyarbakır, İzmir and Trabzon. It is also well connected to all important centres of Turkey by road. While traveling by road from the Kepezüstü region you see at the entrance a picnic area that Antalya locals visit at all opportunities. It was established by the regional forestry commission and was placed under a protection order. To enjoy a splendid view over the city of Antalya, take the turn for Korkuteli and after three kilometers turn off to the Düzlerçamı Park. Keep driving to the Güverçurumu section, an area of natural beauty.

The historical city centre and

(the inner castle)

Start your visit to Antalya in the historical city centre, which takes in Hadrian's Gate, the Hıdırlık Tower, the Yivli Minaret, the Kesik Minaret, and Kaleiçi with its narrow streets and historical houses and the ancient port. All are within an area of one square kilometer. You can cover all this on foot, which is a good thing as cars are banned on certain streets. It is known that Hadrian's Gate was built as the main gate of Antalya during the reign of the Roman Emperor Hadrian (117-138 BC).

The gate today stands in its old glory. According to the famed traveler Evliya Çelebi, the historical city was surrounded by 4.5 km of walls. The walls of the fortress and towers were strengthened during the Seljuk period, surrounding the whole port area. At the southeast end of the walls the two storey Hıdırlık Tower stands 14 metres high. You can get to the Hıdırlık Tower once you enter Kaleiçi from Hadrian's Gate and follow Hesapçı Street down to the seaside.

Suna İnan - Kırac Kaleiçi Museum

The Exhibition Hall of the Suna & İnan Kırac Kaleiçi Museum is the Aya Yorgi (Saint George) Church, considered to be a great cultural asset with monumental qualities inside the old City of Antalya. It is covered with a single-space vault over a rectangular plan which generally reflects the typical characteristics of Mediterranean architecture. Although its date of construction is unknown, an inscription indicates that major restoration work was carried out in 1863.

Generally the traditional Antalya houses are 2 storeys high with an outer vestibule plan. The basement is made of brick or stone and the upper floor has an open wooden framework style (Bağdadi duvar). It is common to see ornamental paintwork of twisted branches, flowers, the moon and star symbols, leaves, rosettes and other motifs as well as the words "Allah" and "Maşallah" written on the facades. At the entrance one passes through a wooden door leading to a pebbled mosaic courtyard with gardens on both sides. The garden is enclosed for privacy by high walls and tall trees, which also provide much shade during the daytime. Due to the mild climate, service rooms such as the kitchen, laundry, storage rooms, cellars, and stables are usually located in the basement. As a result these services do not really affect the planning of the house itself. In all of the gardens there is a cistern (well), which at the same time is used as a cool storage area where food is suspended in a basket. Throughout the streets there were canals running parallel to the houses and the water running through these canals was used in turn by people to water their gardens.

The Düden Waterfall

To enjoy a cool day in Antalya and also see a wonder of nature one should go to the Düdenbaşı waterfalls. The Düden waterfalls and the picnicking area around it attract both people from Antalya and guests from outside. The two sources of the falls, which have as much water as a river, are called Kırkgözler and Pınarbaşı. They converge after a short way and form the Biyıklı pot-hole (Düden) and disappear in it.

The word Düden means a hole that swallows water sources. Some of these pot-holes can be so big that they can engulf a whole river and lake. Starting at Düdenbaşı the Düden stream diverges into many rivulets that finally flow into the Mediterranean from the eastern side of a more than 40 metre high travertine forming a waterfall. Düdenbaşı is not simply a waterfall. The cave you enter via a narrow staircase and the verdant environment will impress you.

The Kursunlu Waterfall

On the stream that runs through a pine forest and thick vegetation covered valley 24 kilometres from Antalya, there is rest place organised by the national park authority with small and larger waterfalls, lakes, viewing terraces and walking paths. There are small lakes where you look at water lilies, and ducks and fish swimming. After this, visit the cool waters running into the cave and watch them burst out in a waterfall in front of your eyes and see the water drops turn to gold in the sunlight.

Walking on the paths running all the way around the valley that follow the stream, give yourself over to another type of joy. Climb on the trees that stretch their branches over the running water, cross the bridges and, if all this is not enough for you, walk beside of the stream running through the valley. The prize of this walk is to have a rest in the pastoral restaurants and coffee houses around the waterfall after the excursion. There is an entrance fee to the Kurşunlu Waterfall National Park.

Beaches

In order to escape the hot temperatures of Antalya during the summer months it might be better to spend the daytime in the sea and leave strolling in the city to the evening. From every point in Antalya there are stairs taking you down to the seaside for a swim. But for a beach with sand you should go to Konyaalti on the Kemer road to the west or Lara Beach to the east.

As in all parts of Antalya, these long beaches also have very clean and clear water. Behind both beaches there are many restaurants, cafes and buffets. If you care to go further out of town, on the Kemer road there are more beaches and picnic areas.

Antalya Beach Park, Lara Beach & Atatürk Park

In the Antalya Konyaalti wood a new beach concept has opened up. The Konyaalti Beach Park Beach complex offers everything, a beach, swimming facilities, entertainment and beverages, aqua sports and shopping. Parallel to the beach there are cafes, restaurants of various cuisines, bars, nightclubs or night entertainment.

The Konyaalti Beach holds the blue flag certificate, the internationally recognised symbol of clean and safe beaches. Those who wish can take part in activities such as paintball and mini golf in the woods at the back of the facilities. You can also make use of the aqua sports school throughout the daytime. In the park there is also one of Antalya's wet and wild water parks.

One of the indispensable features of the Beach Park is Dolphin Land, with its cute dolphins, white whales and seals enchanting all spectators, not just children. At both Beach Parks, Konyaalti and Lara, many alternatives for beverages catering to all tastes are at your service in the restaurant, pubs, cafes, fast food and bistros facilities.

The activities and shows in daytime continue at night and open-air concerts, live music in bars, streets shows and animations ensure you will enjoy your time. The Atatürk Park is located on the cliffs in front of the Antalya Museum. Here you find a great choice of first quality restaurants with a spectacular view over the bay of Antalya and the ever present Toros Mountains.

The Ancient City of Perge

The ancient city is two kilometres from the main road Antalya-Alanya and 15 km. from Antalya. Perge was one of the Pamphylian cities and was believed to have been built in the 12th to 13th centuries BC. After coming under the rule of Lydia and Persia, the city surrendered to Alexander the Great in 334 BC. The brightest era of the city was during the reign of the Romans in the 2nd to 3rd centuries AD. All the remains of the city that can be seen date from this era. There are excavations continuing on the site.

After passing the ticket office, the first entrance to the city is the Roman gate of the later period. On the right there is a Byzantine basilica. After the basilica comes the agora and on the left there are baths. Among the cities of Pamphylia the largest and most glamorous baths were to be found in Perge. When you continue your walk, there are two tall walls that run parallel to each other. These walls, which have become the symbol of Perge, are dated to the 3rd century BC. The oldest gate of the city is in these walls as well as two towers, all from the Hellenistic period. After the Hellenistic gate comes a colonnaded street. The 300 metre long street ends in the nymphem beneath of the acropolis. To the left of the street there is a palaestra (open square) of 79 x 79 metres in good condition which was dedicated to Emperor Claudius by Julius Cornutus in 41-54 AD). It is located to the north of the acropolis on a flat plateau. The theatre that is away from the historical site is the first view of the city you have on the road when approaching the entrance. The 15,000-seat theatre has been restored and re-opened to visitors. Behind the theatre is the impressive and large stadium. It is one of the best-preserved stadiums of the ancient world and the second largest after the stadium in the ancient city of Aphrodisias. The ancient city of Perge was part of Pamphylia. The region says the rise and fall of many civilisations, with their remains surviving to our day.

The Lara

Kundu Tourism Centre

Right next to Antalya there is a new tourism centre developing. In this planned area that has had its infrastructure completed, a centre of 20,000 beds is being created. Aksu is a one the dozens of streams that originate in the Toros and flow into the Mediterranean and is the closest to Antalya. It is only in 15 kilometres from the city and is on the Alanya road. The region is renown for its butchers and meat restaurants. It is right at the entrance of the ancient city of Perge.

Saklıkent

and The Geyik Bayırı

In this hot city, where the sun always shines, for those who visit it in spring and winter months, there is another surprise for you: Skiing. Although no snow falls along the coastal area, on the 2,200 metre high peaks only one and a half hours away from the city there is good quality snow for three months of the year at Saklıkent (Hidden City). The Saklıkent skiing centre is at an elevation of 1,900 metres above sea level.

There are two ski lifts operating and the length of the ski runs vary from between 750 and 3,000 metres and are graded according to their degrees of difficulty. Those who wish can hire skiing gear and take classes from instructors. There is a cafeteria in the skiing centre but accommodation facilities are limited. The view towards Antalya and the Mediterranean is quite pleasing. In the area there are many trout, meat and barbecue restaurants.

Güllük Mountain Termessos National Park

The area around the entrance of the park has been organised as a picnic site. There is a museum where there are displays of local fauna and flora.

The ancient city of Termessos was built in between two peaks on Güllük Mountain. The site of the city is 1050 metres above sea level and spread over a wide area. Termessos is one of the best-preserved ancient cities in Turkey. In ancient inscriptions the people of Termessos referred to themselves as the Solims, an old Pamphylian tribe.

The language they spoke was unique, being a type dialect of Psidia. Termessos only really left its mark in history when Alexander the Great surrounded it in 334 BC, defying the invader. It is reported that Alexander did not touch these brave people, he left them in their own fortresses and then continued his campaign into central Anatolia. The city enjoyed a period of prosperity during the Hellenistic and Roman periods. There is not much information available on its subsequent life in the Christian era. The remains of Termessos are to a great degree scattered amongst the thick marquis and forest area. It is not easy to find what is to see where without having a guide but you can still trace it by studying the general park plan.

Kemer

BELDIBI - GÖYNÜK - ÇAMYUVA - KIRIS - TEKIROVA

This important tourism region is located in the southwest of Turkey, 42 km south of Antalya. This region has grown very fast in this field, especially within the last 15 years and has added new 5 star hotels and vacation villages into its structure. Besides the great holiday villages around the district, many big and little hotels are in a position to answer all kinds of accommodation requirements. The region is still popular for its oranges orchards and in the spring, which always comes early to the Mediterranean region, the scent of orange blossom even today lingers in the air.

During the trip from Antalya to Kemer, which takes 40 minutes, pine trees will accompany you. On one side are the Toros Mountains and on the sea side are many impressive panoramas worthwhile to see. At Kemer the blue of the Mediterranean seems to mix up with the green of the Toros pine trees. Many bays and small natural harbors are present in its indented coast line and the sea is bright blue and clear.

The International Kemer Underwater Days are taking place here in the month of May and Kemer is also an important starting point for weekly boat cruises along the coast - the Blue Voyage. The summit of the 2,375 metre high mountain, in ancient times known as Mount Olympos, today is connected with the Mount Tahtalı Aerial Cableway to the sandy beaches of the Tekirova region. Another attraction in the surroundings of Kemer is Ekopark, Turkey's first reptile park, which was founded by Professor Selami Tomruk, an international expert on herpetology, who has devoted a lot of time to the realization of this project. The name of the town in ancient times was Idyropolis. The ancient city was founded in the 3rd century BC in the area where the current Ayışığı (Moonlight) Park is located. Kemer's current name, meaning Belt, originates from the 23 kilometre long walls built in 1916-17 to protect it from floodwaters coming from the mountains. The main historical sites of the town centre are to the north of the marina and on the east flank of a high hill, where there are two towers, and to north east where there is another tower. On the right hand side of the forest area in the entrance to the town from the Antalya direction, there is the Seljuk era Av Köşkü (Hunting residence). It has been standing for 700 years, due to the fact that it is hidden in the forest.

Olympos

The entrance to the ancient city of Olympos on the cove of Adrasan can be reached by car. This area is a National Park. The city was built on both sides of the Akçay Stream and at the time there were bridges connecting the two sides to each other. In order to see the ruins such as the theatre, bath facilities and basilica you have to cross the stream. In summer this is easy since the water levels drop.

Olympos was also a member of the Lycian Union. Olympos used to be a maritime trading city, just like its neighbour Phaselis. And again like its neighbour, it was saved by the Roman Commander Isauricus, after falling in the hands of pirates.

Where the ancient city is spread there are numerous springs that have cold, drinkable water. These waters have caused the area to be covered in many types of herbs. However, this overgrown vegetation can cause one to miss some of the historical sites in the area. On the opposite side of the streamlet there was a Byzantine basilica and a theatre that seated 3,000 people, though now only its gate is visible. At the entrance there used to be a statue of the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius but nothing is left to us other than the inscribed base of the statue and the Roman temple. During the visit you can see tombs, a temple, the ruins of churches, parts of an ancient aqueduct and tombs hewn into the rocks.

The ancient site should not only be viewed in respect to the historical remains but also should be seen in respect to its rich variety of vegetation. The view from the 50 metre high acropolis is very beautiful, on the side the ancient city of Olympos in green and on the other the kilometres long Çıralı coastline, a visual feast that is presented both by sea and land. There is also a theatre that you can visit.

Via the Akçay river ships could get all the way from the city to the sea and the port. During the time of Roman rule the city became affluent and this era of prosperity lasted until the end of the 3rd century. Later, the city came under the rule of Genovese and Venetian pirates. A memorial tomb, which was unearthed in 1992, belongs to Captain Eudomos and on it there is the figure of ship and an inscription in the memory of the good captain.

Chimera

The seaside village of Çıralı (meaning kindling wood), 35 kilometres from Kemer, got its name from the constantly burning fires on Mount Olympos, fuelled by the gases released from underground. On the side of the road that leads into the village there is a nice streamlet. There are small pensions at Çıralı and nature continues to hold absolute sovereignty. The waterfront is covered with orange and citrus trees, the beach is of small white stones, and the cove absolutely blue and extremely clean. At least for now, it is not very crowded. A slowly climbing walking path leads to Yanartaş and the ancient site of the “Khimera” in mythology. The entrance to the historical site is under the shade of pine trees. Here there is a public tap with drinkable water and villagers sitting under makeshift shades selling various food and drinks. You can walk from the same path that the people of Yanartaş use to climb the slight slope in about half an hour. As you rise you should stop at times and not to forget to look at the valley below, the shores of Çıralı and the sea. Khimera, just like Phaselis, was a member of the Lycian Union. There is not much information on the date of the foundation of the city. A 5th century church can be seen at Khimera’s entrance.

Adrasan

Adrasan is a cove with a beautiful beach two kilometres long that is four kilometres beyond Çavuşköy. Its surrounding area is covered with pine trees. The protected cove, as well being a shelter for fisherman, is an essential stop for touring boats. There are also cruising boats from here. These tours go to the small islands and the coves in the area, including the coves of Suluada, Sazak and Ceneviz at one hour distance and also go to the ancient city of Olympos. The most interesting stop of the tour is Suluada (water island). The belief that the water on this island helps reduce kidney stone is widespread among locals. The port of Sazak is also a closed cove with a beautiful beach and a setting like a natural pool. It is a popular destination of those who love diving. The clarity of the water, allowing visibility of 25 metres, is very suitable for those spear fishing. The fish are plentiful and very varied. At the entrance of the opening at Gelidonya Point there is an ancient wreck, some 3,500 years old. The ancient amphorae recovered from here are on display on the Bodrum Underwater Museum. The shipwreck is still there and in order to protect ancient items diving with oxygen tanks are not allowed. A popular region for scuba diving would be Üçadalar, at least 90 minutes off the coast. There are two coves within walking distance of Karagöz, these being Papaz and Korsan Coves.

Phaselis

This port city, founded in 693 BC, though overgrown with pine and cedar trees, is easily visited. Phaselis in history was an important port city. Unlike many others cities of the time, the founders of Phaselis did not come from sea. The people were of the local Anatolians called the Solyms. The city had three ports, one of which was right at the entrance in the north. To its right there is small port, the middle of the three, which was known as the port of Savaş or Korunmuş (War or Protected Port).

At the end of the Port Street comes the port of Güneş (Sun). Now the cruising boats for the Blue Voyage make a stop or anchor for the night at this port. Phaselis was the oldest settlement in the region and, through its trading activities, the port rapidly developed and prospered. It joined the Lycian Union and became one of its important cities. With the weakening of the league it shared the same fate as all other port cities and fell under the control of pirates. The reign of the pirates in the area ended with the Roman Empire coming to dominate the region. In the Byzantine period it became a bishopric. It retained its importance until the 3rd century AD and declined after that.

Belek

Belek is the new tourism centre of Antalya and has the significant advantage of being 30 km. from Antalya and its international airport. However, this is not the limit of the advantages enjoyed by Belek. its accommodation facilities blend in with the expansive area of forest and beach, almost all of them are of high standard. Belek is also regarded as the centre of golf tourism in Turkey, with the country's nine golf courses of international standard being located in the region.

The tourism industry in Belek is also very conscious of protecting the environment. Those involved in the industry are working with environmental organisations to preserve the marshy area to the east of the forest and the nearby stream, and to turn the site into a "birds' paradise".

New species of birds in the Belek marshlands, previously unrecorded in the region, have been sighted, and the necessary steps are being taken to ensure their protection. The beaches of Belek are an important nesting place for the CarettaCaretta, which are consciously protected by experts from the Hacettepe University of Ankara. With these projects Belek Tourism Center has won the British Airways "Tourism For Tomorrow Awards". Belek has the sea, sand, sun, forest and golf. The pines in the Belek forest are dissimilar to other local species. With their tall trunks and branches that open like umbrellas, they look like the almost vanished types of pines on the hills of the Bosphorus.

As it is not a very dense forest, one can easily take walks beneath the trees or go horse riding. The region has a number of horse farms that in the past, the most serious failing of Belek was the absence of entertainment facilities or restaurants, though this is now rapidly being overcome. Many of the established hotels and holiday resorts have as part of their facilities all kinds of entertainment and sports activities and others are also being developed.

Golf in Belek

Belek has grown to be the biggest golf centre in Turkey, boasting already nine golf courses of international standard. While most of the courses are attached to major hotels, there is also one private golf club. Along with the pleasure of actually playing, it is also possible to watch the masters of the game in action and for the beginner or someone who wants to improve their game, lessons are available from qualified professionals.

Though golf is not widely played in Turkey, its international popularity, especially in the western world, has seen an upsurge in foreign visitors to Belek, which in turn has resulted in the development of new golf courses and hotels to cater to the needs of overseas enthusiasts. Belek's courses are blended with ocean vistas and the surrounding forests, making for restful as well as challenging playing venues. Belek's fame as an international golfing centre is spreading.

Aspendos

The theatre is the main feature of Aspendos, attracting visitors who come here to see the most magnificent example of such architecture still remaining in Turkey from ancient times. Aspendos was founded by colonists coming from Argos, under the sovereignty of Mopsos.

Aspendos flourished even more in the Roman era. The ruins visible today belong to this era. The theatre, which is in an excellent condition and is currently used for concerts and similar activities, can hold circa 12,000 people. It is a splendid example of the work of Roman architects, who managed to combine the auditorium and the stage in a harmonious manner.

Luxury is a lifestyle

It's not about individuality.
Meet our convention centers.

ENJOY CONVENTION

Convention organization is a serious job. However, the fully equipped enormous convention center of Regnum Carya Golf & Spa Resort has been organized so elegantly that convention organization will be an enjoyable task from now on...

The convention center that is founded on an area of 7500 m² with two storey and receiving sunlight completely is at the level to host any kind of international or national convention easily.

Having been equipped with the top notch visual, audio and light systems, our rooms offer flexible usage opportunities with their functional designs.

The rooms enable special arrangements as they can be divided upon request.

The uppermost section of the auditorium is covered with a gallery of columns. The audience reaches the upper rows by climbing through the galleries on either side of the stage. The theatre was built by the architect Zeno, Theodoros' son, during the reign of the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius (161-180 A.D.). In the Hellenic and Latin engravings etched on the entrances on either side of the stage building, it is written that the theatre had been offered to the gods and the house of the emperor.

perspective for your me
the new perspective for your meeting...

The 40 metre tall acropolis is accessed from the eastern gate, one of the three gates of the city. The well-preserved structure that you see is the part basilica from which the city's affairs were managed. Only the southern foundations of the basilica survive. At the right of these structures, there is a monumental fountain, of which only the facade remains.

On the plateau towards the north of the acropolis, you can see the aqueducts that were used to bring water to the city. The well-preserved remnants that still stand are the best examples of such structures in the region, and are extremely impressive. The remains of the building seen near the Eurymedon stream from the road before reaching the theatre are those of a gymnasium and its baths.

Manavgat Side

Once you get to the port of ancient city side, there are two temples next to each other. One was dedicated to Apollo and the other to Artemis. Six columns of the Temple of Apollo are standing today after being restored. You will come across these in almost all photos related to Side. In front of the temples there is also a Byzantine basilica. Added to all this, Side has modern hotels, facilities and the warm welcome you get from all parts of Turkey is present here as well.

Nature has been so generous to the Side region. It has given beautiful waterfalls that burst out of the Toros Mountains, a river that flows into the sea and forms the Titreyengöl Lake, the Manavgat Stream, and the absolutely blue waters that lap its beaches. Then there is the ancient history of Side, where rich civilisations rose and fell, leaving behind signs of their passing.

The hotels and holiday resorts are like ribbon running along the line of Çolaklı, Ilıca, Kumköy, Selimiye, Side, Sorgun, Titreyengöl and Kızılağaç. There is no reason why a holiday should be not enjoyed to the full in this colourful region.

The Ancient City

The city walls of ancient Side are, to a great degree, still standing. They welcome guests with their grandeur. Even though the gate is pretty much in ruins it still reflects the glory of a past era. We enter the town and walk onto the colonnaded street.

This leads us to the entrance of the agora and the theatre. In its time, the street was one the main thoroughfares of the city, and decorated with Corinthian style columns. It is still impressive today. On the left of the street you see the remains of a Byzantine basilica. Before you get to the agora, the museum you can see on your right was an old Turkish bath and has been restored and converted. Before the theatre on the left there are the remains of the agora. The agora, of which only the foundations survive, used to be a very beautiful sight as it was surrounded by shops and marked columns. The old glorious age was not the same for all people. The agora also served as market where pirates would sell off slaves at auction. The part of the agora that faces the sea was used as the state market. The courtyard of it was used as a marketplace and the standing parts of the building shows that the hall was decorated with columns and statues. In the most impressive building of the ancient city, the theatre, there is a monumental gate and fountain at the entrance. The fountain has been restored. The remains of the theatre that have survived to our day are dated to the 2nd century. It can seat up to 15,000 people and in the 5th and 6th centuries it served as an open-air church. The columns lying next to the theatre were brought from Egypt.

There is also a Roman era temple to Dionysus in the city. The colonnaded street starting from the entrance and leading to theatre in ancient times used to go all the way to the port. The rest of the street is under the current shopping area of Side. Once you get to the port there are two temples next to each other. One was dedicated to Apollo and the other to Artemis. Six columns of the Temple of Apollo are standing today after being restored. You will come across these in almost all photos related to Side. In front of the temples there is also a Byzantine basilica.

The Side Museum

The Side Museum displays small finds such as statues, sarcophagi, architectural pieces, altars, inscribed tablets, reliefs, columns, lamps, incense cups and tear bottles that were recovered in excavations since 1949. The most interesting pieces on exhibit in the museum are the statues of Nike, Hercules, Hermes, the three beauties and sarcophagi that have reliefs telling the story of the birth of Zeus, the punishing of Iksion and the figures of Eros.

Manavgat

While Side and its surroundings stand more for its seaside, accommodation facilities, shopping areas, food and drink and certainly history, Manavgat is more about its natural beauties.

The Manavgat Stream and Waterfall

The Manavgat river is very popular for daily excursions on touring boats. They start from the center of Manavgat, visit the waterfall and then head to the strait. The tour lasts about three to four hours. In these boats, which cater to between 30 to 150 people, there is also a meal included. There is also entertainment, sometimes it is live music and sometimes it is a belly dancer. A break is taken at the point where the waters of the stream meet with those of the sea. Those who wish to swim in the river and those who wish for a dip in the sea can take their choice. The water of the river is icy cold and an ideal means of cooling down.

Çolaklı, Kumköy

Çolaklı and Kumköy tourism centres are on the western side of Side with many new hotels, nearby shopping areas, and restaurants.

Sorgun

The street passing in front of the tourism information office further up leads into a wide area of forest. The area less densely planted with pine trees is used for running, walking and horse riding as it is famed for its oxygen rich air. There are also training facilities available for those who want to learn horse riding.

Titreyengöl

(shaking lake)

Once you look at the Titreyengöl you know where its name came from. This name was seen as appropriate from the slight breeze giving the water a constant ripple. However, the lake part of the name is not quite accurate as this is not a lake. This is an area where the Manavgat Stream widens and slows its flow before pouring into the sea. It is surrounded with pine trees. At Titreyengöl you will also come across equestrian centres that give classes in horse riding and conduct tours in the forest.

From Manavgat to Oymapınar

A trip departing from the seaside and following the Manavgat Stream into the mountains adds richness to your holiday, offering manmade lakes, ancient cities, pastoral restaurants and trout and other sweet water fish as a meal.

İbradı

and the Valley of Trout

The dirt road going to the left from the Oymapınar dam lake leads into İbradı. In this pleasant town in the middle of the Toros Mountains there is the Trout Valley. If you prefer not to use the rough road to get to the valley you can travel by a longer paved road through Akseki and on to Cevizli, which is seven kilometres from the Trout Valley.

One of the most important sources of the Manavgat Stream comes out of a cave in this valley. The valley is frequented by nature lovers who come to walk through the nature or fish in the stream. Once upon a time there is used to be plenty of trout in the stream. However, poachers have reduced their numbers. The water of the stream today is utilised in the trout farm that has a restaurant as well.

Alanya

Alanya is a city situated in the Mediterranean, in the eastern coast of Antalya Bay of the Anatolian Peninsula and its history dates back to the antiquity. Behind the town is the Taurus Mountains and the total coastline of Alanya to the Mediterranean is about 100 km. The natural well-kept beaches extend along the coast. Alanya has a typical Mediterranean climate with wet humid winters and hot dry summers. The average winter temperature is 14°C; the average summer temperature is 27°C. In winter the water averages 18° C and in summer 25°C. Though snow in the city centre is an extraordinary natural event Taurus Mountains which is almost over 2000 meters high is covered white during winter. At the beginning of the spring, the 20 rivers of Alanya carry the melting snow on the Taurus to Mediterranean by creating wonderful picnic areas and rafting rivers. Plateaus on Taurus Mountains have a very rich flora and there are perfect routes for trekking and safari. Even in Alanya Citadel there are 16 endemic plant species. There are no factories in Alanya; economic life depends on tourism and agriculture. Alanya has an important role in Turkey's banana and citrus growing. Alanya is one of the biggest and most popular holiday destinations of the Mediterranean with a total number of 150.000 bed capacity.

History

The very first human settlement in Alanya starts in the caves and dates back 20.000 years to the upper Palaeolithic age. Herodotus tells that following the Trojan War people spread out to Anatolia and settled in Alanya region where Pamfilya and Cilician borders were. Town hosted pirates who resisted the Roman Empire for ages. Also was ruled by Romans in medieval, was the capitol of Anatolian Seljuk's. Sultan of the Seljuk's so much liked the city that he rebuilt it and named Alaiye. Alanya, first named Coracesium and then Kalonoros and Alaiye, today is a nominee for the World's Heritage Cities of UNESCO with its thousands year history.

Alanya Fortress

RED TOWER

Sultan Aladdin Keykubat had The Red Tower built primarily to defend the town's shipyard. The octagonal (eight sided) tower is 33 meters high and 29 meters diameter. There are 85 stairs to climb to the top. There is a cistern in the centre of the tower.

Aladdin Keykubat, Seljuk's Sultan, built it on the 250-meter peninsula in 13th century. The walls of the fortress stretch 6500 meters and there are 93 towers and 140 battlements. Its historical features are under protection and people still live in it. Inner Fortress, which is at the highest point of the peninsula and the Middle Fortress, in the northern side of the peninsula are museums. The most important monuments of Inner Fortress are the ruins of the palace and clover shaped church from the 6th century. Adam Atacağı Tower is the last spot of the inner castle tour. It is related that the prisoners of the Roman times were made to play a similar gamble. They were given three stones and one who managed to throw the stone into the sea was released whereas those who could not were thrown into the sea through a catapult. The name Adam Atacağı (Man Thrower) is given for that reason. In the Fortress Süleymaniye Mosque, Bedesten, Andızlı Mosque, Akbeşe Sultan Mosque, Sitti Zeynep Türbesi and Roman period churches are worth to visit. Downwards to the fortress is the Red Tower, Dockyard and Gun house. Famous 17th century Turkish traveller Evliya Çelebi calls Alanya "City of Cisterns" because of the 420 cisterns inside the Fortress. Many of these cisterns are still in use even today.

DOCKYARD

It was built by Sultan Keykubat in 1228. The front of the dockyard has five cells with arches and it is 56.5 metres long and 44 metres in depth. Alaaddin Keykubat, who had the dockyard of Sinop built before, was given the title of "THE SULTAN OF THE TWO SEAS" with the dockyard of Alanya.

GUN HOUSE

It is next to the dockyard. It was built in 1227 on a rock ten meters above the sea level. It is a three-storey and rectangular building made of stone blocks. It was used to make cannons, to construct battle ships, and to defence the dockyard.

KARGI INN

It is in the western part of Alanya, the north of the Kargı creek. We have no idea of the year when it was built since it has no inscription. It is a stone building 46 meters wide and fifty meters long. There are air shafts on the ceiling of each room and the rooms are found around the courtyard in the middle.

ALARA CITADEL

The Citadel of Alara was built in 1232, 37 kilometres westward from Alanya on the demand of Alaaddin Keykubat, the Sultan of Seljuks and it is 9 kilometres far from the sea. The aim of the citadel that was on the Silk Road was to protect the crowds stopped at the inn near the Alara creek. It's built on a steep hill of 200 meters up to 500.

ŞARAPSA INN

It is a building of the 13th century and on the inter-city highway, 13 kilometres westward from Alanya. It was built as a caravanserai on the Silk Road between 1236-1246 on the demand of Gıyaseddin Keyhüsrev, the Sultan of Seljuk's. Today it is used for entertainment.

ALARA INN

It is on the banks of the Alara Creek. It was built as a caravanserai on a land of two thousand metre square, using large stone blocks. The inn built in 1231 was restored a few years ago and today is used as a restaurant and a shopping centre. It is also noteworthy that some signatures of master builders were found during the restoration of the building.

Ancient Cities

There are many remnants of ancient cities through the east and west axis of Alanya. The cities some of which founded in the coast and some founded in steep slopes are called Pamphylia and Kilikia region cities. The remnants reflect the Characteristic features of these regions. The stone ash boxes exhibited in Alanya Archaeological Museum reflect the way of burying the dead in Kilikya region. Entrance to these sites, which are being protected, and where in some parts still excavations are being carried out, is free. Considering the long walks through stony and bushy footpath, people who would like to visit ruins should choose appropriate shoes and carry some water on summer days.

HAMAXIA

It is 12 kilometres far from Alanya within the borders of Pamfilya Region. Strabon, the eminent geographer of the antiquity, mentions about the high quantity of cedar trees that were used in shipbuilding in this region.

COLYBRASSUS

It is a city situated in Taurus Mountains, 30km northwest of Alanya and belonged to Roman period. Many inscriptions scattered all around have a lot of important information about the history of the city although the details are still unknown to us.

SYEDRA

It is located on 20 km east of Alanya. The excavations carried out by Alanya Museum, it is believed that the history of the city dates back to 7th century B.C. The city is surrounded by city walls.

ANTIOCHEIA AD CRAGUM

It is 60 km. to the east of Alanya, on the Mediterranean coast. In the antique age, it was known as "Mountainous Kilikya". The city got its name after King of Kommagene Antiochus IV who lived in 1st century A.D. The ruins of the city are located on three hills.

IOTAPE

It is 33 km. to the east of Alanya. The acropolis of the city is the high hill extending to the sea. In the valley where acropolis is connected to the land, is Harbour Street. Small bay with harbour ruins has an ideal beach to have a swim.

LEARTEIS

It is located about 25 km. away from Alanya, on the skirt of a mountain elevating at the entrance of Dim Valley on Taurus Mountains. The city takes place in the border of the region known as Mountainous Kilikya Region in antique age. Inscription dating the town from B.C. 7th century in Fenike language and found in the town is exhibited in the Alanya museum.

ADANDA-LAMUS

It is 55 km to the east of Alanya and 2 km to the north of Adanda Village. The city is situated on the two hills constituting the peak of a steep mountain. One of the two temples of the city was built on behalf of Roman emperors Vespasianus, and the other on behalf of Titus. On the eastern hill however, one can see the rooms carved into the rocks and the necropolis with big tombs.

NEPHELIS

It is on a high hill stretching to the sea that takes place within the borders of Muz Village, 55 km. to the east of Alanya. On the highest part of the hill, there is the acropolis of the city and the city walls dating to middle Ages. Nephelis with its Odeon, water system, limekiln and necropolis is typical city of Mountainous Kilikya.

SELINUS

The city, 45 km. away from Alanya, is situated on a skirt of hill extending to the sea. The history of the city dates back to 6th century B.C. Roman Emperor Trajanus dies here on 9 August 117 A.D., his ashes later were sent to Rome.

Museums

There are five museums in Alanya. These are; Alanya Museum, Red Tower Museum, Inner Fortress Museum, Middle Fortress Museum and Atatürk's House. All of the museums are under control of the Head Office of Museums in Alanya and you have to pay for a visit. They are all open to visitors during the week except for lunch breaks. The most important work in Alanya is the statue of Heracleus exhibited in the Alanya Museum. Red Tower in the harbour is designed as to reflect the culture of Seljuk's. Inner Fortress, built as the palace of the Sultan Alaaddin during the reconstruction of the city in the 13th century, is now a museum and open to visitors.

Beaches

The coast of Alanya extending about 100 km. is famous with its natural beaches. These beaches are wide and they have Blue Flag. These beaches extending towards the east, is about 24 km and 36 km to the west. In Alanya, the colour of the sea turns to turquoise from blue. In still weather, it is possible to see the fish deep in the sea. In the west, are Damlataş and Cleopatra beaches and in the east are Keykubat and Portakal beaches. Entrance to the beaches and the showers are free. Deck chairs and beach umbrellas are provided in return of money; however, it is not obligatory to seek this service. At buffets in the beaches, the prices are fixed. At the beaches, no boats and water sports vehicles are allowed within a certain distance. From the coast, swimming areas are determined with barriers. In the west of Alanya the famous beaches are Alara, Incekum, Avsallar, Türkler, Payallar, Konaklı and in the east; Oba, Tosmur, Kestel, Mahmutlar, Kargıcak, Demirtaş beaches.

Mediterranean Tastes of Antalya

Halfway along the coastline of the Mediterranean, on the southern shores of the Anatolian peninsula lies a treasured city. It is called Antalya. It is blessed with all the beauty and distinctive features for which the Mediterranean is well known: behind it stand the pine and cedar clad Taurus mountains and stretched out before it are cliffs, bays, rocks and beaches as far as the eye can see. The sea teems with diverse sealife. Fresh fruit and vegetables, a thousand and one flowers in all conceivable colours, wild herbs for making infusions or to use in cooking; they all flourish here on the fertile soil. Ice cold flowing rivers and birds of prey and wild creatures that roam the mountain slopes, as if Antalya were a replica of paradise on earth. Is it history you seek? Antalya has it in abundance.

Or is it perhaps sun? Endless. It is not for nothing that tourists flock to Antalya from around the globe. Indeed, over the centuries there has been many civilisations to have crossed this fertile land, each leaving its mark on the other, each shaping the way in which food is eaten and prepared.

This cross fertilisation is apparent in the way food is cooked in Antalya today. Mediterranean, especially Italian cuisine makes abundant use of basil. Fesleken, as it is known in Turkish, has been widely used for centuries in the villages dotted around the Taurus Mountains to add flavour to food, weather is soups, stuffed vegetables or pasta dishes. There is even a village called Fesleken. The Taurus Mountains also abound with another two vital ingredients in Mediterranean cooking: Morel mushrooms and white truffles. Called kuzu göbeği (lamb's belly) and domalan (roughly pig snuffler) respectively by locals, these rare types of fungus have been enjoyed by locals for years - even stuffed.

Edible wild herbs and plants grow profusely in the Mediterranean as well as the Aegean regions. In the province of Antalya there are roughly 70 meals, soups, salads and pasties prepared with these wild herbs - something not seen in any other Mediterranean cuisine. Apart from Aegean and Mediterranean, there is no other coastal area that can boast harvesting the following three crops together: wheat, olives and grapes. Flour obtained from wheat is used to make bread to satisfy us. Bread is the corner stone of the dinner table. Oil pressed from the olive adds flavour to our food. And the nectar extracted from grapes to produce wine gives pleasure. Satisfaction; taste; pleasure. Where else would you experience these three things together?

The influence of Arab cuisine is also in evidence. The use of chickpeas and tahini in soups, salad dressings and sweatmeats is widespread. Anatolian cooking has remained unchanged for generations, leaving a very visible mark in many settlements around the Taurus Mountains, such as Ibradi, Akseki and Elmalı. The cooking techniques, too, of wandering nomads, now settled, add depth to the cooking of the area. The province of Antalya is indeed a collage, a melting pot of different cultures and traditions, reflected in the other name for Antalya, namely Pamphilia which means the same. And it is this colour and diversity that is reflected in its cooking - a treat in store held in the recipes of this book.

A Spa & Wellness Center

Today's spa is a center for healing and nourishing mind, body, and spirit. People go to spas for fitness, stress management, peace of mind, pampering and pleasure, and health and wellness. Spas offer a wide variety of techniques and services - traditional and modern, from the East and from the West - to meet the diverse needs of their clients: Swedish, Japanese Shiatsu, and Thai massage, European facials, acupuncture, Dead Sea salt scrubs, Moor mud wraps, thalasso therapy, aromatherapy, reflexology, microdermabrasion, endermologie, reiki, aura imaging, watsu, rasul, hypnotherapy, classes in nutrition, meditation, journaling, yoga and Tai Chi, state-of-the-art fitness centers with personal trainers, and much more.

Wellness today embraces and celebrates its origins in water and beauty and is constantly looking for new ways to express it.

History of Spa & Thalasso

The history of water therapy based treatments as a modality used in physical medicine goes back thousands of years. Records dating back to 2400 BC suggest that Proto-Indian culture made hygienic installations and that the early Egyptians, Assyrians and Mohammedans used mineral waters for curative purposes.

Most people in ancient times respected or worshipped running water. The Japanese, Chinese, Greeks and Romans used warm baths therapeutically thousands of years ago, for reducing fatigue, for promoting the healing of wounds and for combating dejection and low spirits.

The Greeks were among the first to appreciate the relationship between physical and mental well-being. They developed centers near springs and rivers for bathing or recreation. Around 500 BC the transition from mysticism and cult to a medicinal use of water for treatment started. The Romans with their building skills developed a variety of baths from Caldarium through Tepidarium to the Frigidarium.

From the two towers, which have become the symbol of Perge, starts the colonnaded street that ends in the nymphaeum beneath of the acropolis. The theatre is the main feature of Aspendos, attracting visitors who come here to see the most magnificent example of such architecture still remaining in Turkey. That the theatre remained so well-preserved till this day, is due to the fact of the thought-out construction method of the architect Zeno under the rule of emperor Marcus Aurelius (in 161-180 A.D.) and also to the late Byzantines and Seljuks, who used the theatre and kept in good condition. Thus the theatre of Aspendos forms still in Termessos Tour : This ancient city is also called the “Eagle’s nest” because of its most remarkable location high in the Taurus Mountains. Other remains include an agora, a gymnasium, the theatre with a spectacular view and five vast water cisterns carved into the rock. Useful: Walking shoes

Yacht Tour : The best way to see the beautiful coastline of Antalya from the sea is of course by yacht or Gulet (Turkish style wooden vessel). The most popular trip is also called the Blue Voyage. It takes you around the unspoiled bays and beaches of the Turkish Riviera. Daily boat tours depart from Antalya Kaleiçi Marina to the waterfalls or to Phaselis. It is also possible to take tours departing from the Kemer Türkiz Marina. Lunch is included.

Sagalassos (Aglasun) and Burdur:

Sagalassos is located 7 km to the north of Aglasun, a village in the province of Burdur. The ruins of the antique town lie on the southern slopes of the Aglasun Mountain, which belongs to the western part of the Taurus Mountains. Today the Aglasun stream is only a small tributary of the Aksu, however, in the antiquity this river was much bigger and formed together with the secure location high in the mountain slope very good conditions for the development of the town. Excavations started in 1990 under the direction of Professor M. Waelkens from the University of Loewen in Belgium. The area is extensive as Sagalassos was once the biggest city of Psidia. The Bouleuterion, the ruins of the city hall, the Agora, the Heroon with the frieze of the dancing girls and the inside of the neon library with a beautiful mosaic floor are worth seeing. The Hellenistic fountain is especially impressive, because since 1997 the well water flows again through the antique water pipes into the basin of the fountain. The big fountain building on the north side of the upper Agora is also very impressive. The tour takes you later to Burdur. Visit of the museum with the statues found at Sagalassos, short visit of the old part of the city of Burdur, return to Antalya.

Cappadocia - Land Of The Fairy Chimneys

Three thousand years of history await the visitor to Cappadocia, this fairy-land in central Anatolia. Millions of years ago, Mount Erciyes convulsed the surrounding landscape with a torrent of lava, smothering hundreds of miles. Later, floods, rain and wind sawed away at the table of lava, creating deep valleys and fissures, slopes turned into cones and columns. Lakes and rivers in the area, especially the Kızılırmak River, contributed to the erosion of this layer of tuff stone, giving the region its fascinating shape. There is an array of colours of the rock mingling with colours of the fauna to an impressing symphony. The most famous rock formations known as fairy chimneys - have been sculpted by wind and water through the ages. Water has found its way through the valley creating cracks and ruptures in the hard rock. The softer material underneath has been swept away and the fairy chimneys conical formations protected with basalt caps have been created.

Cappadocia is also famous for rock churches and underground cities carved out of the rock from early Christians. The area of Ürgüp Göreme and Zelve is an open-air-museum of churches and hermit dwellings, underground cities are located at Kaymaklı and Derinkuyu.

Cappadocia 3 days Departure in the early morning by bus through the Toros Mountains to Konya. Visit of the Mevlana Monastery. We will follow the old Caravanseraï route to Nevşehir. Overnight. On the following day visit of the fabulous landscape of Cappadocia with the Fairy Chimneys, the open-air museum-like Göreme with its churches carved from the soft calcareous rock. Overnight. Return to Antalya, visiting a well preserved Caravansaraï.

Cappadocia Balloon Tours

Cappadocia is known around the world as one of the best places to fly with hot air balloons. The spectacular surrealistic landscapes combined with excellent flying conditions allow the balloons to gently drift over and between fairy chimneys, pigeon houses hewn into the unique rock formations, orchards and vineyards – through impressive valleys, each with distinctive rock formations, colors and features – and then float up over rippled ravines for breathtaking views over the region.
